A Fine Lecture Delivered by Rev. C. Braxton Bryan.

The Religion of Colonial Days"-Annual Meeting of the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities - Luuches -A Float Party-Recital Last Night.

"The Religion of Colonial Day" was the subject of an entertaining lecture delivered by Rev. C. Braxton Bryan, of St. John's Church, Hampton, last evening before the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, at the residence of Mrs. Tazewell Taylor, on Granby street.
A cultured audience, numbering about fifty of the members of the soclety, was present to enjoy this attractive occasion, and Mrs. Taylor's handsome parlors were fragrant with the cent of beautiful flowers. It was the annual meeting, and several new mem-thindal meeting, and several new members were elected. An excursion to Jamestown was also discussed. The Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antihquities exists in almost every town in Virginia, and this lecture was one of a course delivered before the society in Richmond. The following are the points Mr. Bryan touched upon.

the points Mr. Bryan touched upon.

Conflicting elements in English religious life at the period when Virginia was settled. (The Church of England, the Romanish, the Puritans, the Independents.) Elements representing not only ecclesiastical ideas, but political and religious principles.

The Virginia colony represented the ruling and conservative elements of the Mother Country. (Pains taken to secure these characteristics in religion. This represented in Robert Hunt and his early successors.)

Adverse circumstances from 1621 and later. (The Indian, the negro; isolated character of plantation life.

Provisions to meet the needs of the case. (The Bishop of London, the missionaries, their parishes, the churches and their furniture, the vestries, 5,

The struggle takes on a more political cast: whether within the church between clergy and vestry, or between the church and dissenters. The rights of the clergy violated (under the political strain); the parson's cause lost; the dissenters' cause gained.

The revolution led by churchmen, who, when civil and religious liberty was won, rebuilt the church.

IN HONOR OF MISS GIBSON.
One of the prettiest affairs of the week was the supper given on Wednesday evening, at the Country Club, by Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Woodard, in compliment to Miss Gibson. An claborate menu was served by the club's caterer, and the table was effectively decorated with roses and carnations. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Biscoe, Mrs. Curtin, Mrs. Curtis, Miss Gibson, Mrs. Curtin, Vaughan, Miss Fattle Seldon, Mr. Richard Doble, Mr. Friebus, Mr. Brooke Taylor and Mr. Worthy Smith.
